Prošek Dioklecijan

Prošek Dioklecijan

Croatia

Prošek is a traditional Dalmatian natural desert wine, distilled from the most famous sorts of dry grapes. According to legend, the Roman emperor Diocletian found great delight in drinking this wine, when in 303 A.D, he abdicated and went to live in his palace in Split. This pleasant wine has a dark-copper color with an aroma of matured grapes. It contains 15,2% vol. of alcohol. Usually served with desserts and well cooled, with a slice of lemon, it is delicious refreshment during the summer. For its high quality it was awarded Gold medals at the fairs in Ljubljana in 1965, 1967, 1969, 1971, 1972 and 1984. It won the Grand Prix in Pardubice (Czech Republic) in 1969 and many other important international prizes. Taste the tradition.

Prošek is available in cases of 12 x 1-liter bottles.
